E. H. Gary Says Magnates Now Are Beginning to Make Public Facts and Figures.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 22.—Publicity—its relation to "big business" and its value as a preventive of war—was the theme today of Chairman E. H. Gary, of the United States Steel Corporation, in his presidential address before the Amerian Iron and Steel Institute.

Publicity Necessary.

"But in government, as well as in business, publicity is a necessity" continued the speaker. "This idea has continued the speaker. "This idea has peculiar application to the present situation in Europe. If the masses of the people of the different nations engaged in the terrible conflicts that are now raging in Europe were fully informed of all the facts, is it to be supposed the wars would be much longer continued?"

Citing the horrible conditions already prevailing and the burdens the belligerents will have to hear when peace is restored, the speaker drew a negative conclusion.

peace is restored, the speaker drew a negative conclusion.

"If, indeed," he added, "before the wars were started, the masses of people Lad been informed that they were to be started and of the reasons or lack of reasons for starting them, would they have submitted to their precipitations?"

text, "For none of us liveth to himself and no man dieth to himself."

For Ancican's present prosperity, business men, he added, have reason to be very thankful.

"Personally I do not agree," he concluded, however, "with statements that at the close of the wars we may expect a prolonged continuance of the great prosperity now experienced. I do think that, with wise administration and the co-operation of the State and National Governments our industries will be able to recover from the injurious effects of the wars much more rapidly than those of any other country."

The Senate and House investigators were busy today studying the several briefs filed with their upon which oral testimony will begin on Monday. There are now four briefs formally before the investigators—those of the Joint Citizens' Committee, the Tax Reform Association, the Committee of Forty, and the paper prepared by Heibert J. Browne taxation expert. The brief of the Committee of Forty asserts that an anomalous situation is now presented here because a city with a third of a million population is denied any part in its government and is controlled by 560 legislators from other communities. The brief continues:

"The Constitution provides that the Congress shall have power to exercise exclusive legislation' over the District. But this constitutional provision is no har to the granting, by appropriate legislation, of the privilege of self-government. The President is emnowered to appoint the afficers of the District, by net of Congress. The citizens may be given by act of Congress the nower to elect them, as had been done in the past

"The proposal to grant the Dirtict a delegate in Congress with a voice, but with no vote, does not meet the situation. It may still be considered the respections for this community at the rost of Government to be given by constitutional amendment a voice in national matters. But so much the more reason that it should be emowered to control its municipal affairs. The Congress could early preject the national interest in the Capital by reserving the right of vets for less latter by the Disterict as in Territorial we emments. "The arguments of a certain element of the Dirtict that refs-overnment should not be granted need not be considered by the Tories of the Revolutionary period. If the Congress should double taxetion in the District, as it has the power to do, the sentiment saginst axation without representation would immediately become overwhelming and ation without representation would im-mediately become overwhelming and

There has been a change in the past decade, however, he said, many "big business" heads anking public all suitable facts and figures concerning their enterprises even when not required to do so by law.

Due to this change, Gary said, "there is abundant evidence that at present the great general public is willing to meet half way the individual or the corporation in the determination of all questions that affect private or public interests."

impossible, for Washington to be a mere local city, not only by reason of the national character stamped on it by the Constitution, but because people of the Constitution, but because people of this country desire and will insist upon the reverse. Consequently, it is the duty and ought to be she pleasure of Congress to recognize the 11-tic or Columbia as a ward of the nation (which undoubtedly it is) and act in a spirit of fustice at least, and even generosity, in behalf of our helpless and independent people."

Mr. Shoemaker refers at length to the Mr. Shoemaker refers at length to the "un-American" ituation presented here by a people taxed without representa-tion and denied the right of self-gov-ernment. He refers to the steady ac-quisition of private property by the quisition of private property by the l'nited States Government, much of this property having been donated by individuals. He continues:

"The United States has taken all the real estate that the local landowners were willing to Jonate, amounting to a very large quantity, and it has purchased much that has been needed from time to time for national purposes, thus recognizing by accepting these donations and by making these puchases the property rights of the local landowners.

City's Donation Large.

City's Donation Large.

"No other people of all the people in this great country have donated as much money and property as those of Washington have in the past, and are now providing for the benefit and adantage of the Capital City of our coun-men: to be liberal would involve an aimost infinitesimal expense upon others of the United States, who are ready and willing to bear it, not only because they believe in justice for local landowners, but because they want to see Washington embellished, enlarged, and improved, so that it will become not only a greater pride of the nation but the admiration of the world, and they know that far more than local expense must be involved to accomplish this result. Mr. Shoemaker contends that the street extension plan in Washington is national in scope, "and was designed by Congress without the request of District people and over the protest of many." A local street extension system, he avers, could have been established at one-fourth the cost. He continues:

"The old city is essentially residential in character; the new and greater Washington will undoubtedly be more home, and thus lose touch with the common duties and privileges of citi#### zenship Savs Growth Is Retarded.

"The attention of Congress is unduly sken up with District matters. Onetwelfth of the time of the House and a proportionate time of the Senate is ordinarily absorbed in the discussion of legislation for about 1-3 of 1 per cent of the population of the United Statesto say nothing of the time of the President in considering legislation and ap-dent in considering legislation and appointments.

"The present system retards the growth, along national lines, of the National Capital. With Congress occupied with general legislation for the District and with appropriating money for purely municipal purposes, with the financial inability of the District to raise by taxation even half of the sum that would be necessary for making Washington the capital of capitals, the city is neither a model municipality nor city is neither a model municipality no the object of national pride that it wel might become under other conditions.

Ethical Consideration First.

The ethical consideration, first importance, is herewith mentioned last It is not just that American citizens to their fellow-citizens throughout the nation. It is not in the interest of good government in the nation, that members of Consress should exercise the privilege of taxation, disbursement of funds, and general legislation, for a community helpless to protect itself against injustice whether in the way of oppression or of favoritism. It is not seemly that the principles of taxation without representation, of government without the consent of the governed, should be fostered at the heart of the nation that was founded in a protest against that very form of tyranny." to their fellow-citizens throughout the Louis P. Shoemaker, president of the Brightwood Citizens' Association, and a large holder of real estate, filed a brief today with the Congressional half-and-half investigating committee, protesting against any reduction in the Federal Government's contribution to the District of Columbia.

it is, we have principally a rectangular system, burdening District people to the extent of millions of dollars to execute, and we see everywhere great cuts and fills, which appear to be a species of vandalism because of the destruction of a once beautiful topography.

Dictated By Congress.

"Congress, again considering the Federal asepct rather than the interest of local landowners, dictated the existing plan in behalf of almost one hundred million comprising the nation, and enforces the entire cost of acquiring the land and executing its provisions upon less than 50,000 taxpayers out of a local population of 350,000.

The Shoemaker brief refers critically to the assessments against District revenues for part of the cost of acquiring and maintaining Rock Creek Park and Zoological Park, and draws a distinction between suff and live monkeys, to wit:

"Our Zoological Park is an adjunct of the Smithsonian Institution, the nucleus of which was once locate adjacent to the Smithsonian Institution, the fact that local taxpayers paid half the expense of maintaining it. The cost of acquiring and improving in this park should be refunded to the District for the reason that it is a Federal land.

Costs of Monkeys.

In a comparatively narrow market Potomac Electric Power consolidated 5 per cent bonds proved the leader at to-day's assistion of the washington Stock Exchange. These bonds, which yester-day's commanded 100, a total of $5,000 worth being traded in at that figure.

Other price changes were insignificant, Other price changes were resignificant, Other price changes were insignificant, Other price changes were insignificant

Costs of Monkeys.

"How local people can be charged for this feature of the Smithsonian Institution and escape expense as to its other tion and escape expense as the bits of the features is difficult to understand. For stuffed monkeys in the Smithsonian Institution the United States pays the whole cost, but for monkeys alive the District is charged with half the amount

District is charged with half the amount required.

It will not be sufficient to say that 50,000 local taxpayers should pay half the cost of National Rock Creek Park, the National Zoological Park, and the national atreet extension plan, because they derive an advantage and enjoy them, for the remaining population of 300,000 who are not taxpayers, and it is also true of the thousands who visit Washington annually from all parts of the country for recreation and instruction.

Duty of Congress.

In conclusion, the Shoemaker brief, which is marked 'propared at the revantage of the Capital City of our country.

"It is not, however, the power and exclusive jurisdiction given to Coingress by the Constitution over the District of Columbia which has created and is now enforcing evil and hardship, but it is the unfair exercise of that power which has operated and now imposes injustice upon local taxpayers. Our system is not bad (except it is un-American) if we have good administrators, but lyrannical in the hands of those having no substantial interest here, men whom the people do not know, and who themselves are strangers to the property owners. What other community would be satisfied with this condition?

Congress Should Be Liberal.

"Congress ought to be fair and even liberal with Washington. That it should be tust was intended by our forefathers, and is now desired by all well-disposed men: to be liberal would involve an almost infinitesimal expense upon others of the United States, who are ready and willing to bear it, not only because they believe in justice for local landowners, but hecause they want to see Washington embellished. enjarged, and im-

Mrs Priess said that she went to Christensen at 637 Madison avenue on June 14 and paid $5 for a membership in the Psychological Research Society. She said that she went to Christensen for treatment. On September 3 she had an audience with Christensen in a darkened room. While there she said that a voice in the dark called "Marie." When the "psychic" asked her what troubled her she told of an imaginary pain in her back. The "spirit" then told her not to go to a physician, but to have Lake treat her. She went to Lake, who took her to another dark room and more spirits talked to her while Lake vibrated his fingers on her back. Three times Mrs. Priess was treated by Lake and each time she was charged $2.

While her treatment by Lake was going on Mrs. Priess had many scances with Christensen and he told her fortune and read her horoscope.

"He told me lots of things," said Mrs. Priess yesterday, "about my family and myself, but of all the things that he revealed to me he missed the most important of all, me being a detective."

HERBERT H. BROWN,

The Safest Investments Are those that do not fluctuate during dis-turbed conditions of the money or stock mar-kets. First deed of trust notes that mar-gages), well secured on real security in the District of Columbia, constitute "gitle-dage" investments. They do not depend upon the financial responsibility of individuals or cor-porations for their stability, and are exempt from taxation as personal property. We can supply such investments in amounts from 1500 upward. Send for beoklet "Concerning" Loans and Investments."
